Cutting edge event tech...

With a comprehensive stock of Lighting, AV, IT, Sound, Staging and Rigging equipment we can create bespoke technical solutions to suit your event.

Coupled with our highly qualified and experienced in-house technical team we can deliver the equipment and the know how to support your event.

We design, plan & deliver...

Whatever type of event you're looking to hold, Production 78 will organise every aspect of it, delivering ongoing consultancy as part of a totally bespoke service.

Production 78 will guide you through the event design, planning every detail. We'll be there on the day delivering the event for you, ensuring that everything runs according to the agreed plans.

All you need to do is get in touch, sit back and relax, safe in the knowledge that Production 78 will create an event for you and your clients to remember for all the right reasons.

...every detail of your event

As well as our skills in complete event planning, what really sets us apart from the rest are Production 78's high standards of quality and our attention to detail.

While we always make sure the main parts of an event are of the very highest standard, we honestly believe it's the little things that make the difference to your guests. That's why at our events, it's not just the quality of the décor, entertainment, catering or service that we pay attention to, but that same level of attention is given to your flower arrangements, cloakroom facilities, and all the other tiny elements that too often get overlooked.

We are only as good as our last event which is why every event matters so much to us.

Your event Your brand...

If getting your brand in front of your guests is the main reason you are holding an event then Production 78 has a number of ways of ensuring this happens. Visit our lecternhire.co.uk website to see our contemporary lecterns and the ways in which your logo or event message can be on display throughout your presentation.

When you are considering the most important event in your calendar, why not consider a company dedicated to creating high quality events that will make a bold and long lasting impression in everyone's mind.

As a leading independent creative event agency, Production 78 can provide all of the elements to ensure that your event is uniquely realised from concept to delivery.
